ests that the airplane heard was following the approximate course mapped out by Captain Cell for the trans-Atlantic machine.

One of the three persons who reported hearing the plane is Mrs. Hinton, wife of the superintendent of the Imperial cable at Francher Grace. She said she fog blotted out the sight of the plane she heard overhead.

Her story corroborated stories of Patrick O'Brien and Captain John Stapleton, both Harbor Grace farmers, who independently of each other told authorities they also heard a plane motor in the clouded sky.

Search at St. Pierre

Harbor Grace is near the isthmus connecting the Avalon and Burin peninsulas at the southeastern end of Newfoundland.

Conception and Trinity Bays are to the north of this isthmus and Placentia Bay to the south.

Apparently the airplane which was heard passed over the southernmost tip of the island, northwest of Harbor Grace. Proceeding southwestward, it passed on in making Placentia Bay.

St. Pierre, the only dependency left to France on the North American Continent, lies at the mouth of Placentia Bay. Janice Galsworthy, French consul here, has wired the Governor of St. Pierre suggesting that the bay be searched for the Nungesser plane.

The dentition hopes that the French airmen may be found soon to rest on the Newfoundland search.

Navy Scouring Bays

Captain B. D. White, naval attaché at Paris, informed the Navy Department that Nungesser's proposed route would have carried him over northern Newfoundland near the Belle Isle Strait. The aviators may have drifted in the fog to the southward and this would have brought them over Harbor Grace, he said.

Meanwhile United States naval vessels and Coast Guard patrol are cruising along coasts of the western waters of the Atlantic, hunting for the airmen while the dirigible Los Angeles is waiting for better visibility before joining in the search.

Winkles and steamship companies were still without any comforting word today of the French crew now three full days overdue at New York.

Woman Heard Plane Over Home in Newfoundland

St. John's, N. F., May 12 (A.P.)—The airplane which three reputable residents of Harbor Grace report having heard whirling through the fog last Monday morning was that of Captains Nungesser and Galtiers in a wide variety of possibilities as to what happened to it afterward.

The two men, Peter O'Brien, a farmer, and Captain John Stapleton, said they distinctly heard the roar of an airplane engine, but could not see the plane because of the fog.

Mrs. Hinton, wife of the superintendent of the Imperial cable at Francher Grace, reported today that she also heard it.

Harbor Grace, twenty-five miles in an air line northwest of St. John's, is the second largest town in Newfoundland.

THIS WILL BE HER "CELL OF ANGUISH"
Judge Scudder has advanced the sentence day from next Monday to tomorrow. She will then be taken to this cell. From there, it's the death house, then the chair.

He had been sighted by members of the Highland Light Coast Guard station and was rescued from the sea by the coastguardmen.

For three days Goodwin hunted the sea in his frail dory. He had a supply of water with him, and yesterday he was given food by a passing steamship. Today when he was picked up he was in state of exhaustion from his long hours of work at the oar.

The Ecuadorian Costa was sixty miles southeast of Highland Light on Monday afternoon when the fog swept over the craft. Goodwin was heading towards his dory when the fog blotted out his vision.

For hours the schooner cruised about, searching for the missing man, but the weather was so thick that the task was a hopeless one.

Finally the schooner set sail for Boston with captain and crew sore at heart. Then came the joyful news that the missing sailor was alive.

Goodwin told the Coast Guardsmen, when rescued, that the vessel that gave him food yesterday offered him a berth aboard. The vessel was bound for a foreign port, however, and the sailor decided to remain in his dory, confident that he would eventually make the shore.

Goodwin is married and has one child.

HOPE FOR SAINT ROMAN IS ALMOST ABANDONED
Dakar, Senegal, May 12 (A.P.)—Hope for the rescue of Captain Saint Roman has all but been abandoned here. Several vessels arriving at Dakar from Rio Janeiro and Pernambuco, after passing through the zone where it had been hoped the aviator might be found, reported no plane in sight. Contrary to reports from Pernambuco, no search has thus far been made in the vicinity of Cape Verde, the belief being that the aviators must have been lost somewhere off the South American coast.

No action on payment of the $40,000 insurance policy on Albert Snyder's life will be taken until his widow's appeal is dealt with. Alfred Hildreth, vice-president and general counsel of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, said yesterday.

Bride, Minus Teeth, Still Loves Her Big Caveman

Minus three teeth, a bride of two months told her story from the witness stand in East Cambridge district court today, where her husband pleaded not guilty to assault and battery on her.

It seems, according to her story, the path of true love has wound through thorns bushes, not daisies, since she and Joseph Semano, who is but 29, was married. Instead of love and affection, she said she received hard knocks and ill treatment. Then the climax came last night.

He hit her so hard he knocked out three of her teeth and injured his fist, she claims. After she told her story to Judge Barnes, she allowed marks it wasn't so bad, and while court looked on she "made up" with Joseph. He was given a month's suspended sentence, and the pair walked out arm-in-arm.

WIFE HUNGERS ALL ALONE FOR HIS LOVE

From the pages of a little blue-bound diary the soul of a girl was bared in Middlesex Probate Court today.

The diary was that of Mrs. Eliza W. Bradley of Park street, Boston, who is suing John M. Bradley for a divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

The pages, she alleges, tell the tale of a girl whose young husband is in a government training camp, waiting to go to France, very sad here in the courtroom by the attorney for the husband, who is contesting the suit.

The portion of the diary read before the court between August 2, 1918, and October 16, the same year. The diary was introduced as evidence by the husband to combat his wife's assertion on the stand that after the days of married life she "loved him."

The husband, a Tufts graduate, is himself in a cross-suit, asking a divorce on the grounds of desertion.

The couple, married during the early days of the war, lived together for six years, "I am persuaded," the diary revealed how the husband's wife was every effort at the command to get her husband back to her, even if only for two days.

He was in a training camp in the South, expecting momentarily to be sent to France. The diary noted:

Aug. 3, 1918.—Got two letters from my darling boy. He has hopes for a furlough soon.

Aug. 4, 1918.—Two fine letters from my boy but he is in the hospital suffering with his leg. May God bless him!

Find Hope for Fliers in Hinton's Experience

New York, May 12 (A.P.)—Reports today indicating the remote possibility that France's "White Bird" may have been forced down in the Newfoundland wilds stirred new hope for the safety of Captains Nungesser and Goll.

For the occasion was recalled when? Capt. Walter Hinton and two comrades disappeared for more than two weeks in 1923 in a five balloon, only to turn up safe and sound in an isolated Canadian outpost, none the wiser for their adventure.

Hinton, who was a member of the French Aeronautic Service, received a telegram from the French consul at Dublin, Ireland, today, saying the Free State's inquiry had established beyond question that the Nungesser transatlantic plane crashed in Ireland from Limerick to Carlsberg, and was last seen at the latter point at about 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Their balloon, the Navy A-559, was one of the last type with net and basket and had no engine. Direction was obtained by rising or sinking to air levels where the wind was in the desired quarter.

On December 14 the balloon was reported passing over the Adirondacks and rumors had it crashing into a mountain. After that mystery enveloped the fate and as the day passed a search was organized which was supposed to intensify only by the present hunt for the two Frenchmen.

Planes were sent from Mitchell Field to search the Adirondacks and the forest was searched in this country and Canada were enlisted to help find the balloons.

The first word to come was a telegram to the Rockaway station on Jan. 3, 1927, signed by Capt. Knier, who was the pilot and in command of the party.

SWEET BY STORM. The telegram reported that the balloon had run into storm on Dec. 14, 1923, and was seen by the coast at 8:12 a.m. on the former St. Louis biplane for mail and to report to the coast.

PAY CUT 10 P. C. IN ITALY

Rome, May 12 (A.P.)—Italy's industrial and agricultural workers are to accept a ten per cent cut in wages.

New contracts providing for the reduction will be made between the employers and employees' confederations in all branches of industry, agriculture and commerce.

A semi-official statement says that requests for the wage cut were made by the confederations of industrial and agricultural employers and the confederations of the workers' confederations consented when agreed to by the government.

A Rome dispatch said the government announced the beginning of a general reduction in retail prices, particularly in northern Italy. Reductions ranging from ten per cent on ordinary articles to fifty per cent on other commodities were reported from Turin.

CHAPLIN JURY DISAGREES

New York, May 12 (A.P.)—Unable to agree whether Charlie Chaplin's motion picture, "Shoulder Arms," was based on "The Bookie," a comedy by Lew Lewis, disfranchisement and author, the Federal court jury having the case was split 10 to 9.

Jury members were about 10 to 2 for Chaplin when they reported they were split 10 to 9.

The 10 jurors were in favor of awarding the full amount asked by Lewis, $50,000.

The missing persons bureau has investigated 145,414 cases since 1914, the report shows, and of that number 141,933 persons were located or identified. Absent for 23,600 missing girls and 33,000 missing boys were sent out during the year.

The old Dickens coach is owned by Frank S. Kelly, producer of the play "Pickwick." The pilgrimage will start at the Parker House in the Pickwick room, where Edward F. Payne, president of the Dickens Fellowship of Boston, will spend the actors and actresses on their way. From there the coach will proceed to visit the Governor, Mayor and Harvard. President Lowell will welcome the players, according to their press agent, in honor of the Dickens Fellowship.

Day before yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford contributed four hundred thousand dollars, or one-tenth of the amount needed. Yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Ford contributed four hundred thousand dollars more.

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN, president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, on the "Detrol," bound for New York, tells this writer that the automobile business is doing nicely. Retail sales of the Chevrolet for the past month were more than 95,000, not counting export sales.

Mr. Knudsen, who formerly worked for Mr. Ford, believes, as do others, that Mr. Ford is about to give the automobile world something to talk about.

By the way, those opposed to immigration, convinced that Europe has nothing more to offer us, should be interested in the fact that Mr. Knudsen came to this country from Denmark twenty years ago, bringing with him only a good education and the belief that nothing is impossible—the two things that can accomplish anything.

DETROIT, city of machinery, is intensely interested in the courageous flying adventure of Nungesser and his companion, Captain Coll. Mr. Hilner, editor of the Detroit Times, says that the interest in the trans-Atlantic flight was at least ten times greater among his readers than interest in the Snyder murder case.

THE STATE of Michigan is still trying to reach a decision on capital punishment. Certain legislators appear to think that to discourage murder the State must initiate the murder and inflict death. It is proposed to restore capital punishment in Michigan, where it has long been unknown. Michigan is a civilized State, an example to others in many ways. It is to be hoped the legislature will not decide that civilization in Michigan needs the help of a hangman, or a man to throw the switch on an electric chair.

WHAT IS the ideal child, in your opinion? Secretary Hoover, president of the American Child Health Association, says the normal child "is not superlatively happy or deeply discouraged, is robust, vigorous, not ruled by emotions." That is a good definition of a child destined to develop into a go-getter.

On the other hand, Napoleon, who told all the adult children of Europe what they should do, was not vociferous or robust. He was sickly, sallow, ruled by a currier because his school-mate laughed at his Corsican accent, and was entirely ruled by his one emotion, ambition.

THE INDUSTRY commission of the League of Nations reports 20,000,000 out of work in Europe and blames the United States, of course. Europe should also blame itself for allowing 20,000,000 pairs of hands to remain idle.

A good farmer keeps his horses and oxen working, a good industrialist keeps his machines busy. Europe needs canals, roads, houses, and it should be possible to find work for all. That would be easy if men could get away from the idea that the only sound reason for putting a man to work is to let somebody else make a profit out of his labor.

BANK ROBBER? NO, NOT EVEN A GOOD RUNNER

The Everett Trust Company and several nearby streets in Everett were the setting today of half an hour of excitement that began with a bank guard's suspicions and ended with a chase and the capture of a young man claiming Doris street, Roxbury, as his home.

Frank Wallace was the name given by the quarry cornered by Police Sergeant J. H. Richardson after Wallace, one of two men being chased by a squad of officers, tripped and rolled over the pavement.

It was the suspicion of Thomas Dawn, guard at the trust company, that started the excitement that drew a crowd of hundreds and gave birth to a rumor the bank had been robbed.

Dawn did not like the actions of two young men in the bank and he communicated his suspicions to bank officials. They notified the police and Sergeant Richardson was sent down with a squad of officers.

Seizing the moment, the two young men ran with the crowd in hot pursuit. Behind them came the streaming, yelling officers.

Several blocks away, Wallace tripped and fell, with the sergeant diving on top of him.

Because Wallace refused to state a reason for his presence in Everett, he was locked up pending an investigation of his career.

Mr. McCarthy was private secretary to H. H. Harris, president of the General Alloys Company, with offices and foundry in South Boston and was on a business trip when killed.

DEATH WELCOMES WILD

Searlight, N. J., May 12 (A. P.)—Thousands of birds, thought to be wild canaries, and believed to have been driven from the Massachusetts food area, when floods inundated their feeding grounds, received a hard welcome today.

Several hundred of the birds were killed by rats, dogs and snail boys. On one side street 28 dead birds were found. A few of the birds were welcomed by housewives who captured them when they flew in through open windows. Many of the birds were beautifully marked.

Gallant 8 Huntsmen Put 2 Pigeons to Rout in Court

Eight brave court attaches charged two hunting pigeons in superior court today when they interrupted proceedings before Judge Foster.

A recess was ordered with the court officers organized their attack and the two pigeons beat a retreat through the windows.

The arguments of lawyers had no avail on the pigeons when they first entered, hence the recess.

Under $700 bail for a further hearing on May 23, the pigeons were released.

VETERAN TRIES FOUR WAYS TO KILL SELF

Fearful that he was going blind from injuries suffered while he was a soldier in France, Antonio Rapano, 47, of Tremont street, East Boston, tried three ways in an effort to end his life in World War Memorial Park, East Boston, today.

A park attendant, Alfred Bennett, after battling to disarm the veteran, finally pulled him from the waters of Boston harbor into which he had leaped. Rapano is in the East Boston Relief Hospital in a critical condition.

A knife, a razor and a jagged piece of a mirror were the weapons Rapano used to attack himself. He tried to drown himself in the harbor, but was pulled out by a lifeguard.

Rapano, who was 47 years old, was a veteran of the World War. He had been in the service for several years and had been wounded in action.

IT'S A MISTAKE TO JAIL HIM

Charles Rocheleau of Lowell, after being locked in an East Cambridge cell for 24 hours, was taken before Judge David F. Dillon in Middlesex District Court today and told it was all a mistake.

Rocheleau was arrested in February on a charge of manufacturing indecent. His hearing was scheduled for May 6. When he failed to appear, Judge Dillon issued a capias for his arrest. He was taken into court and fined $100 for defaulting and when he could not pay was locked up.

Today, Assistant District Attorney Warren L. Hubbs explained to Judge Dillon the capias should not have been issued. He said Rocheleau had been told by Indulgent Clerk Leo St. Jean he need not appear on May 6, as the case would be dropped. The indictment clerk was taken ill and the district attorney's office was not notified of the postponement. Rocheleau was released by the judge.

JACK AND JIM—WILL EITHER PROVE AS GREAT AS PAST CHAMPIONS?

JIM SAYS JACK CAN'T HURT HIM

So, Boston Heavy Asserts He Can Sting Sharkey and Will Win by K. O. as a Result

By JACK CONWAY
Long Branch, N. J., May 12.—"Jack Sharkey cannot hurt me with his punches while I can sting him with mine. That's why I shall win when we battle at the Yankee stadium on May 19."

Jim Maloney spoke these words in a great confidence and just completed a strenuous workout in the gym where he has been training for the past few weeks. The confident and powerful fighter, who is now in the prime of his career, is a native of Long Branch, N. J., and is a native of the city of New York.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., May 12.—I found Mr. Boston standing on the platform of the Long Branch railroad station talking to the press. "You can bring me to the town as often as you want," said the veteran as he turned me into the taxi. "Then a cap can be of service to me."

MEDBURY SAYS--

By JOHN V. MEDBURY
SOCIAL workers claim that there are more divorces among theatrical people than there are in any other class. There should be, they get married often; then anybody else.

ATTORNEYS are the most unselfish people in the world. They hardly ever keep a husband over two or three years.

THEY never take him off the market permanently. No matter how much they love a man it isn't long before he returns to the public.

ONE star married the same fellow twice. She found out that the woman next door wanted him. MATRIMONY is a word.

PICTURE people promise to "love, honor and obey," but they seem to reserve the rights for Los Angeles. Copyright, 1927, King Features Synd.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

ONE actor refused to go on with the ceremony the other day because he'd forgotten his rabbit's foot.

ANOTHER fellow has remained a bachelor. He says he doesn't like to himself up for a year.

THE ministers out there are making a lot of dough. Maybe they get ten per cent. of the alimony.

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for "Best Joke" published. Address: "Best Joke," Boston Evening American.

"Say, Harry, do you think the picture show will ever want out?"

"No," replied Tom, "and neither will the picture show of New York." Copyright, 1927, King Features Synd.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE--BY HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT kind of man do YOU like?

I like blue-eyed men or grey-eyed men.

I am one of those ladies who "prefer blonde." I have never been able to resist the fascination of a mop of yellow hair. Brown-eyed men may be more constant, more devoted and more unselfish than blue-eyed men—but they are also more temperamental, and moody, and harder to understand.

I like shy modest men. Coquettish and saucy girls never impress me, and conceit is as distasteful to me as garlic in the soup. Modesty in a man is like finding a ten dollar bill in your last year's pocket. Always such a sweet surprise!

I like old-fashioned men. Men who have enough respect for their mothers to assume that every woman is a "lady" until she proves herself otherwise. Nowadays, most men assume that every girl is "quitty" of yearning to be petted, until she proves herself innocent. And it takes a lawyer to convince them that she is not "playing a game," even then.

I like men who are delicate, tender, and fastidious in their love-making. When I was very young,

I used to think it would be better to be "Lolita" by a boy, his irresistible "Herman." But my taste has improved. I like a GENTLE man!

I like men who love beauty, nature—and even poetry. Men who have a faith in a Divinity higher than themselves. Men who have a definite ambition and an ideal in life. Men who have a philosophy to live by.

I like the "wise" men—strong, wise, capable men. The kind of man to whom a woman turns confidently and instinctively in every crisis. The kind of men whose shoulders seem made for a woman to cry on.

I like men who are not too "He-Manish" to understand the delicate and complicated workings of the feminine mind. Who love WOMAN—not just "I'm in it!"

I like good-natured, sensible men who do not spoil a party with their grumpiness. Who are not constantly looking for an argument, who never bully the waiter. Kipity, even interrupted. Baa-ay-ay.

What kind of man do YOU like? Write and tell me. Encourage, 1927, King Features Synd.

Many Markets on Exchange; Some Rise, Others Decline

By R. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, May 12.—No longer is there only one stock market, the New York Stock Exchange, but a series of other markets, operating in a number of financial centers, are doing well, while others are declining. In this connection, it is worth noting that the New York market is not alone in its fluctuations. The London market, for example, is also showing signs of a general decline, while the Paris market is showing a more pronounced rise. The situation in the United States is also complex, with some markets showing a general rise and others a general decline. THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1.—Clean streets.
2.—Better pay for honest public service.
3.—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
4.—Section of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land.
In order that Boston, properly equipped with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1.—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2.—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.

3.—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4.—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5.—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6.—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

"I'm a Policeman!"

What If You Are? Obey the Law

To some men the possession of a badge, a billy and a gun is almost equivalent to an equipment consisting of royal crown and supreme authority. They walk as gods. They act like "something else, again."

Two of these shoot-first-and-think-afterwards police officers have been figuring in the day's news. And QUITE unpleasantly.

One of them, in Lynn, saw a seal in a stagnant pool of water, off Broad Street.

The seal was "swimming and diving," contrary to the peace and dignity of the State.

The policeman shot and killed it.

The OTHER alert guardian is a member of the Portland, Me., department.

He says Aran Byrne Terry, pedigreed Irish setter belonging to Mr. Harold P. Libby, was "chasing ducks."

Other witnesses report that "A. B. T." was merely "playing in the water" and "doing no harm."

The Irish setter is dead. The policeman killed him. The officer has been suspended.

It should not take long, as a rule, to find out the man who is unfitted for police work. He shoots too quickly. He shoots too loudly. He takes his badge to be authority to lord it over others. He conceives himself to be monarch of all he surveys.

When such a copper is discovered he should be stripped of his buttons and sent back to work he is better fitted for.

Nine policemen out of ten are O. K., which is perhaps as good an average as can be claimed for clergymen, lawyers, doctors, movie actors or newspaper editors.

The bad ones should be weeded out before they can transgress upon the rights of others than stray seals and pedigreed setters.

Home Rule

A Little More of It Would Do Boston No Harm

We observe in the Boston Charter Association of the City Council, which is at work on a new charter, that it is a good idea to have a home rule.

In making its plans, the association is well within the system of 22 Commonwealths.

Whenever there is tinkering with the local form of Government, however, the Boston Evening American hopes the question will be put fairly and squarely before the people of Boston.

A little more home rule would do this old town no harm and the young political leader of ability who will make THAT his issue, and be man enough to be neither palavered nor bullied ragged away from it, will go a long way and do his city a great service.

For example, why should not Boston enjoy the run-off majority primary, to the end that the two survivors might meet at the polls on Election Day?

The present method of choosing the Mayor of Boston must suit somebody perfectly. It may suit several somebodies, for that matter, but it is a mighty long way from being a square deal to the people of Boston.

How about a "home rule" association, open to all?

SWEET

We Make and Sell a Lot of Candy

Mr. Harry R. Chapman, secretary of the New England Confectionery Company of this city, has been telling New England Rotarians something about the size, value and importance of the candy industry.

The figures are astonishing.

In the year 1904 the number of candy-making establishments in the United States was 1,348 and that of their employees 36,000, the annual payroll amounting to $11,500,000. Last year there was a slight falling off in the number of separate establishments, but the workers had increased to 63,400 and there was $54,000,000 in their pay envelopes.

There has been a more or less widespread popular belief that the tremendous sale of candies in America has been stimulated by the prohibition amendment. This belief, Mr. Chapman says, finds NO support in the figures compiled by the Federal government.

The confectionery industry in Massachusetts represents an investment of TWENTY-FIVE MILLION DOLLARS. There are 133 candy-making establishments in the Bay State, they turn out one-eighth of the American product, and the State ranks THIRD in the United States in the manufacture of candy.

Bargains in Mackerel

They're Fresh!

Mackerel fishing would appear to be ALMOST as much of a gamble as trying to pick the winner of Saturday's Derby. If the fisheries of Boston, Gloucester and Portland have another $5,000,000 worth of mackerel will come from mackerel, judging from present indications, for fishermen have been glad to sell their catches for 2 cents and the fish has been selling at retail for 10 cents the pound.

Last year was probably the most successful mackerel year the coast has experienced. This year may be bigger, but apparently it will NOT be more successful. If they were not of such tough fibre, skippers and their crews would be discouraged.

Perhaps the thrifty New England housewife can be induced to come to the rescue. A rush for this REAL bargain in fresh fish would help to clear the decks.

The Price of Progress

By W. Kolliker

LISTEN WORLD!

By ELAIN ROBINSON

TWO indignant letters have arrived.

One's from a Miss Girl and the other is from a Worthing Young Man.

Mabel, the Nice Girl, wants to know what the use of being good at any rate, she doesn't get such sweet, smoke, drink, use make-up, waste her money, wear short dresses or indulge in any other demoralizing habit. According to Mabel's young man friends that's exactly the kind of a girl they want to find.

But do they try to find just as if she was the office knock-out. So what's the use, etc., etc., cries Mabel.

Herman, the Worthing Young Man, is also convinced that Righteousness is a dud. For four years Herman has worked in the same Gent's Furnishing Store. During that time Herman has abstained from smoking, drinking, and rough language. He has never been late. He has never asked or bargained a sale-price.

Yet no one has praised or promoted him. Other young men have been advanced over his head—punch men with not half his sterling virtues. So what's the use, etc., etc., cries Herman.

NO USE AT ALL.

All Negative

Now don't jump to the alarming conclusion that I'm advising you to be bad. I'm not. But I am advising you to adopt another kind of goodness if you want to get on in life.

The young man's young ladies are that it's all NEGATIVE. It's all about NOT DOING ANYTHING.

There's no pulling power in that sort of goodness. It's as powerless as the hole in a doughnut. It doesn't make people notice you or believe in you or depend on you or desire you.

If you want to get anything out of life you must adopt a POSITIVE type of goodness—goodness that DOES SOMETHING.

For example, Mabel, you make a virtue of not using make-up. But that's not a virtue. That's merely a negation. The little girl with blue faced faces may be very silly, but at least they are offering a certain illusion of color and romance to the world and attracting attention in return. But what are you offering?

Nothing but a nicely washed skin. Well, that's no particular treat to a young man, either.

Positive Goodness

OK? your face. You must put something ON your face—something that will advance your stock as well or better than make-up. Humour, sympathy, understanding, intelligence, modesty—these are your real assets. Make yourself desirable and you'll be desired.

That's advice goes for you, Herman. As a store fixture you're 100 per cent. But as a color, convincing human you're a wash-out. You have no real value—just that isn't enough. Have you any good ideas? You have told me what you don't do. What do you do? What particular service do you render?

Well, that's no particular treat to a young man, either.

TOURIST CROP ONE OF THE BEST

By DR. FRANK CRANE

MANY localities are beginning to learn that their best crop is the tourist crop.

A native of Florida was once asked what the Floridian lived on. He answered: "They live on Yankees."

The prosperity of Southern California is amazing, but far above all their imports and exports and profits arising therefrom are the proceeds from the crop of tourists.

There are no figures available for Los Angeles, but there are figures that have been published from Detroit, which is a great convention and tourist city.

The Chamber of Commerce there says that during the year 412,000 delegates and tourists were entertained and they spent $32,900,000.

There were 160,355 tourists in Los Angeles in January, 1927.

Reckoning then the way they do in Detroit, they spent an average of $20 each, or a total of $3,229,000.

Los Angeles is busy raising a $120,000 advertising fund to advertise the country as an all-year-round resort.

Nobody knows how much many American tourists drop in France and Italy, but it is a considerable sum and forms a very important part in the receipts of those countries.

Every effort should be made by the inhabitants of a nation to cultivate this crop of tourists. Their stay should be made agreeable for them and they should receive the warmest hospitality, as everybody, including transportation companies, automobiles, hotels and restaurants and merchants are benefited by their stay.

Besides this, going away they advertise the country they have visited and bring more tourists.

Few people realize that the prosperity of a nation not only depends upon the local inhabitants, but depends upon their visitors.
